STOP THE LOSS FIRES UNNECESSARY

Brick is absolutely fireproof in an ordinary conflagration. Brick buildings never burn, although they are sometimes injured by falling timbers or combustible interior work.

A brick building is absolutely fireproof if wire glass is used in the windows and if burned clay floors are used.

Burned clay is the only building material that has been through the fire before you get it, in such a manner that it will resist fire.

"3 Acres and Liberty!"

That little home you've planned so long—that little home near town—with fruits and flowers—and birds and bees—berries and blossoms—vines and vegetables—all the joys of suburban life—yet close to town so you may have all the advantages of the city—near cars and schools—an ideal location—It's ready today for some live fellow with a little money and a lot of ginger, to make a start on the road to independence. $500 will put the key in your hand. ARE YOU THE MAN? See me today!

A BUNGALOW WHICH MAKES A FINE HOME

This one-and-a-half story bungalow makes a fine home. There is plenty of light, good ventilation and the covered porch, though of ample size, is not too large to effect the beauty of the house. It is so arranged that the bath room may be entered from the hall. This hall separates the living rooms from the sleeping apartments, a very essential arrangement in a bungalow. The living room contains open fireplace, and the dining room has a bay window and comfortable window seat. There is a rear porch also.

The half story makes a splendid storage room.

Are You Ready to Build That New Home?

Don't fool yourself, show good sense and build it fire-proof.

A BRICK HOUSE

is not only fire-proof, it is also vermin-proof, warmer in winter and cooler in summer. It grows in value. A frame house depreciates and is a constant expense, becoming more and more of an expense as repairs become more and more necessary.
